As I reflect on my first year as President, I can certainly say that 2016-17 has been, by far, the most exciting and rewarding year of my career. It was a busy year full of many “firsts” for me as President and a year of many successes for the institution and for our students, faculty, and staff. Among those was the successful completion of our reaffirmation of accreditation process and the launching of a new academic advising initiative geared toward student success. I hope you will join me in reviewing this report with a great sense of pride in your community college.

I have always said that it is the people who make CCC&TI special. This past year confirmed this assertion for me. As I had the opportunity to interact with our faculty, staff, and community, I was overwhelmed by the outpouring of support for me as President and the unwavering commitment to this great college, our students, and the communities we serve.

Throughout our 53-year history, we have remained steadfast in our commitment to excellence and student success. Carrying on this legacy depends on the support of community partners, alumni, faculty, staff, and donors, like you, who invest in our institution and the students we serve. Your generosity and support for CCC&TI were key in helping the Foundation’s 2017 Annual Fund Drive reach its second highest mark in history. Thank you for your dedication to excellence and commitment to providing opportunities for students to access the quality educational programs available at CCC&TI.

On behalf of the College’s Board of Trustees, faculty, staff, and students, thank you from the bottom of my heart for your continued support and partnership. We look forward to working with you as we carry out the mission of CCC&TI and improve the lives of people in our community. Together, we can continue being the best community college in North Carolina.

Sincerely,

Dr. Mark J. Poarch
CCC&TI President
CELEBRATIONS
Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute held its annual Adult High School and High School Equivalency graduation exercises on Thursday, May 11, at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center in Lenoir. The ceremony honored 94 new graduates. Graduates were from communities across Caldwell and Watauga counties and ranged in age from 16 to 61.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute honored a total of 750 curriculum graduates in ceremonies held Friday, May 12 at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center in Lenoir.

The Class of 2017 included:
- 750 total graduates representing 31 North Carolina counties
- 314 first-generation college students
- Graduates ranging in age from 17 to 68, with an average age of 26
- Six Dream Scholars; and
- 40 TRIO Student Support Services graduates
- Three South Caldwell High School graduates and one Watauga High School graduate also earned Associate Degrees by taking advantage of tuition-free courses through Career and College Promise

The 2017 Adult High School/High School Equivalency Distinguished Alumni Award was presented to Amber Grout. The award recognizes an alumnus or alumnae of the GED/AHS program who epitomizes the philosophy that the AHS or High School Equivalency diploma is a new beginning and who has worked to achieve additional credentials, a career with life sustaining wages, and who is representative of what hard work, persistence and motivation can achieve. Grout graduated from CCC&TI’s Adult High School Program and completed the college’s Basic Law Enforcement Training Program in 2012. She is currently employed with the Granite Falls Police Department and is also working toward a degree in Homeland Security.

The 2017 Trustees’ Student Awards of Merit were presented to Julio Gonzalez and Kiersten Walker. The award recipients are selected based on faculty nominations for outstanding academic achievement, extracurricular activities and community service.

The 2017 Dr. Donald Lackey Award for Excellence in Teaching was awarded to Melinda Laws, Director of the Medical Assisting program. The award honors a faculty member who characterizes personal dedication, concern for student welfare and academic excellence.

CCC&TI’s Early Childhood Education program celebrated the Week of the Young Child with their 6th Annual Early Childhood Read-A-Loud in the Learning Resource Center on the Caldwell Campus. Students read children’s books, recited original children’s stories and presented flannel board stories to approximately 35 attendees. Each child that attended also received a book from the Early Childhood Teachers Club.

Marco Leonardo Chumbimuni was chosen as Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s 2017 Academic Excellence Award winner. He was presented a medal and plaque at the April 2017 CCC&TI Board of Trustees meeting on the Caldwell Campus in Hudson. The annual award, which is presented by each of the
The state’s 58 community colleges, is chosen based on faculty nominations and academic achievement. For the committee, it was a combination of his academic record and his extracurricular service that made the difference. During his time at CCC&TI, he worked as a tutor, was an officer in the Science Club, was a member of the National Society of Leadership & Success, and served on the Student Government Association. Chumbimuri was also an Eagle Scout and a member of the Beta Club.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute students excelled in the SkillsUSA State Championships in Greensboro, N.C. with several students finishing in first place in their competitions and earning the opportunity to continue on to the National SkillsUSA Competition in Louisville, Ky.

Students from both CCC&TI’s Automotive Systems Technology and Electronics Engineering programs participated in the competition. First place finishes were awarded to Electronic Engineering students Paul Trigger and Rebecca Silvas in Mobile Robotics, Larry Milam in Technical Drafting and Michael LeFovers and Nathan Minton in Robotics Automation and Technology. Automotive student Tom Gowins won first place for his Automotive Showcase on how to make biodiesel fuel.

Each of these students advanced to the national competition where students Rebecca Silvas and Paul Trigger won the gold medal, first place in the nation, in the Mobile Robotic Technology (Post- Secondary) competition. The faculty advisors for the competitions were Susan Deal, director of the Electrical/Electronics and Mechanical Engineering programs, Instructor Tom Mendenhall and Roy Jennings, director of Automotive Systems Technology.

CCC&TI’s Speech Language Pathology Assistant program received the North Carolina Speech-Hearing-Language Association’s (NCSHLA) 2017 Student Recruitment Award.

SPLA student Haley LaHue was awarded the NC-SHLA’s SLP-Assistant Student Achievement Award.

The Family Literacy/Adult Education program was awarded $1,000 by the Lenoir Service League for student support. The Lenoir Youth Foundation, Inc. also donated $400 to the Center to assist with GED vouchers and a field trip to the Catawba Science Center.

Adult Education was awarded a $10,000 grant from the Dollar General Foundation. The money will be used for student support for High School Equivalency testing, for tuition assistance for students wishing to pursue secondary level classes, for materials needed by dual-enrolled students who need help with textbooks, supplies and equipment required by their program.

CCC&TI’s Nuclear Medicine students took 2nd and 3rd place in the North Carolina Nuclear Medicine Technologist (NCNMT) Society’s Poster Competition held in conjunction with the society’s spring meeting. In addition, Nuclear Medicine student Lance Minton was awarded the Marion Eddy Scholarship from the NCNMT.
A group of second-year Cardiovascular Sonography students from CCC&TI attended the 2017 NC Ultrasound Society Spring Symposium in Asheville. The students competed in and won the Student Quiz Bowl event. Student Quiz Bowl team members were Jacob Smith, Jordan Beane and Krysti Mast.

Former Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute President Dr. Kenneth A. Boham was honored with the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce’s LA Dysart Man of the Year Award at the organization’s annual dinner. In 2016, Dr. Kenneth Boham capped a nearly 40-year career in higher education – a majority of which was spent as a leader and innovator in Caldwell and Watauga counties. He made his retirement official in June 2016 after more than 21 years as President of CCC&TI, leaving a legacy that included unprecedented enrollment, facility expansion and successful partnerships.

Former Corporate and Continuing Education Department Chair Donna Bean was honored for her workforce development efforts while at CCC&TI during the Caldwell Economic Development Commission’s annual celebration. Bean was presented the Herman Anderson Award, given annually for economic development achievement. Bean, who was part of the EDC’s industrial recruitment team through her role at CCC&TI, is now Finance Director for the City of Lenoir.

It was an incredible season for the Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute men’s basketball team, one that our players and coaches won’t soon forget. Culminating with a 24-9 record and a trip to Hutchinson, Kansas to play in the National Junior College Athletic Association National Championship Tournament, the Cobras made the most of their first season playing Division I basketball. In the first round of the National tournament, the Cobras faced Jones County Junior College from Mississippi. Despite a valiant effort, the Cobras fell to Jones County by a score of 106-78. The Cobras punched their ticket to the National Tournament after taking second place in the District X Tournament Championship in Southern Pines, N.C., after a 61-60 loss to Spartanburg Methodist.

CCC&TI’s Writing Center celebrated its 10th Anniversary. The center hosted a “Birthday Party” themed event with refreshments and prizes for students. The center was first opened in 2007 as part of the college’s “Write On” Quality Enhancement Plan.
Oh, The Places He Goes....

CCC&Ti President Dr. Mark Poarch visited Valmead Elementary and Hudson Elementary in March to read Dr. Seuss books to students in honor of Read Across America. In addition to the stories, Dr. Poarch also brought cupcakes prepared by Culinary Arts students for the students and teachers.

COBRAS IN THE COMMUNITY

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Watauga Campus Culinary Arts program began offering “Carry Out Cuisine” events to the general public. The new “Carry Out Cuisine” events offer the public an opportunity to enjoy gourmet fare at a reasonable price, while also giving CCC&Ti’s Watauga Campus Culinary Arts students a chance to apply their classroom knowledge in a real-world setting.

Caldwell Campus Culinary Arts students hosted a “Chef’s Table” Dinner to raise money for the Caldwell County Arts Council. Culinary students also participated in the “Taste of Caldwell” event at Cedar Rock Country Club to benefit Communities in Schools.

Students and staff from CCC&Ti participated in the Foothills Mini Stand Down and Service Fair at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center in Lenoir, providing a variety of free services for area veterans. Students from the Cosmetology, Medical Assisting and Massage Therapy programs provided free haircuts, massages and blood pressure checks. Representatives from Student Services and Workforce Development and Continuing Education also were present to provide info on what the college has to offer.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Cosmetology Department hosted its third annual “Students for a Cure Event” on the Caldwell Campus in Hudson. Cosmetology students offered manicure, haircut and styling services in exchange for donations for the Foothills NC Susan G. Komen organization. In total, 54 students participated. The event served 61 clients and raised more than $360 for NC Foothills Susan G. Komen. In addition to this event, CCC&Ti Cosmetology students provided free manicures to seniors at local senior centers, collected food items for local food pantries and helped raise funds for several local charities throughout the year.
Groups of cosmetology students went to South Caldwell High School to provide free military regulation haircuts for students in the Navy Junior Reserve Officers Training Corp (NJROTC) program. The event offered a great opportunity for CCC&TI students to practice their skills and also provided the free service to SCHS students in the NJROTC program. A group of CCC&TI Cosmetology students also spent a day practicing their craft and brightening the day for residents of LEOS (Lenoir Emergency Outreach Shelter) with free haircuts.

CCC&TI students and our Student Government Association held donation drives for area food pantries and the Lenoir Emergency Outreach Shelter (LEOS) in Lenoir. More than 810 food items were donated to local food pantries. In addition, more than 1,000 pounds of goods were donated to LEOS in the form of food, cleaning supplies, paper products and other essentials. The CCC&TI Science Club donated the most items and won the LEOS Drive competition. The winner of the food drive competition was the Cosmetology Day Class.

Students in CCC&TI’s Compass Classes presented their annual production at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center. The presentation of “Grouchy Scrooge” was held on Thursday, Nov. 17. Donations were accepted at the door with all proceeds going to support CCC&TI’s Compass program. Cosmetology students worked with the performers on hair, make-up, costumes and set changes on the day of the show.

TRIO/Student Support Services students participated in a number of service-learning projects, raising funds and collecting donations for local organizations including The Shelter Home, Relay for Life, local food pantries and more.

Students enrolled in CCC&TI’s Ophthalmic Medical Assisting program, partnered with The Lions Club and Dr. Marvin Alan Winesett, to host a vision screening at the Hickory Soup Kitchen.

The CCC&TI Student Government Association, representing both the Caldwell and Watauga Campuses, hosted a dinner and a movie fundraising event on the Caldwell Campus in Hudson. The event included a screening of the Oscar-winning movie La La Land, as well as a three-course dinner prepared by Culinary Arts students. It was a sell-out crowd, with the event raising $1,200 for the annual Foundation of CCC&TI fund drive.
CCC&TI’s Student Government Association hosted a talent show at the JE Broyhill Civic Center in Lenoir. The event showcased the talent of CCC&TI students from both the Caldwell and Watauga Campuses and also raised more than $260 for Hurricane Matthew relief at NC Community Colleges impacted by the storm. Prizes were awarded to the top 3 contestants, chosen by the event’s guest judges. Winners were Quinn Roberts - 1st place for her performance of Janis Joplin’s “Ball and Chain”; Grace Hall - 2nd place for her rendition of “Spooky” by the Classics IV; and Sharon Taylor who belly danced to Erev Shel Shoshanim and took 3rd place.

CCC&TI’s Ceramics I and II students on the Caldwell campus volunteered their artwork to help support Yokefellow’s Empty Bowls fundraising event. Handmade bowls were thrown by instructor Laura Aultman and their clay surfaces designed by the ceramics students. Eighteen bowls were donated to this first annual Yokefellow Empty Bowls event at William Lenoir Middle School. “Empty Bowls: Feeding Our Neighbors” is a collaboration between artists, who create and donate handmade bowls, and local chefs, who prepare meals, in an effort to raise proceeds to support local food pantries. Event guests make a donation and receive a hand-crafted bowl and a meal.

The North Carolina Association of Education Office Professionals (NCAEOP) chapter on the campus of Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute in Hudson distributed Christmas gifts to 45 local children in December 2016 for its annual Angel Tree Project. For 16 years, CCC&TI NCAEOP members have collected donations from CCC&TI faculty, staff, retirees, students and friends for its annual Angel Tree drive. The project provided gifts for the children of qualifying CCC&TI students. In addition to the usual Christmas toys and clothes, the 2016 drive included children’s furniture donations from Ashley Furniture and Highland Woodcraft.

The Caldwell Campus hosted the Relay for Life for Caldwell County on April 29, 2017. The event drew a large crowd to campus, which provided ample space for activities for the fund-raising effort. CCC&TI’s Relay team included 63 members.
CCC&TI hosted an opening reception in the Seila Gallery located in D Building on the Caldwell Campus featuring the work of local artist Virginia Sauer. Sauer, who is 97 years young, had several pieces in the show that were for sale. Proceeds went toward establishing the “Virginia Sauer Scholarship” for art students. Pieces were on display through the end of the Spring Semester.

CELEBRATING THE ARTS

CC&TI released the 21st Edition of Branches, the college’s literary and arts magazine. The publication featured prose, poetry and artwork from both CCC&TI students and members of the community. More than 160 literature and art entries were received in 2016. The final publication includes 22 written selections and 31 fine art selections.

CCC&TI renewed “The Performing Artist” series in 2017 providing free concert offerings for students, employees and the community. The series was presented by the Associate in Fine Arts Music Program under the leadership of Program Director Justin Butler.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute hosted Susan Gregg Gilmore, author of The Funeral Dress, for its 2017 Laurette LePrevost Writers Symposium. The college held several reading and discussion events with the author. The events were well attended by community members and students who read Gilmore’s novel as part of their English and reading curriculum.

CCC&TI's Writing Center hosted the 10th annual Poetry Slam as part of National Poetry Month. Students shared original poetry or their favorite poems by other authors. The judges for the competition were faculty members Tom Thielman, Holly Hanley and Leslie Deal. Student winners were Isabella Bryant, Jared Pinkney and Brandon Stamey.

On the Watauga Campus, students were invited to enter a Poetry Poster Panorama competition by displaying an original poem and illustration. Posters were displayed and winners for Best Poem and Best Poster were announced on Poem in Your Pocket Day, April 20.
A press conference held on March 20, presidents from the six community colleges in North Carolina’s Northwest Prosperity Zone shared that this region has an overabundance of good paying advanced manufacturing jobs; the challenge is finding enough people to fill seats in community college classes that build a highly skilled workforce for employers. The focus of the event was to share what each college is doing to support advanced manufacturing in the region. Catawba Valley Community College, Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute, Mayland Community College, McDowell Technical Community College, Western Piedmont Community College and Wilkes Community College serve the dozen counties in the Northwest Prosperity Zone: Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Burke, Caldwell, Catawba, McDowell, Mitchell, Watauga, Wilkes and Yancey counties. The event drew a robust crowd of fellow college presidents and their staffs, business and industry representatives, elected leaders, chamber of commerce members, economic development professionals, college trustees and other supporters of the community colleges in the northwest region. Dr. Mark Poarch, president of Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute, spoke about CCC&TI’s ongoing partnership with the Economic Development Commission to establish customized workforce training. Poarch said the college has the ability to be nimble and responsive to the diverse needs of industry. Deborrah Murray, executive director of the Caldwell County Economic Development Commission, also spoke on behalf of CCC&TI saying, “They are my partner in recruitment. They are my partner in retention. They ingeniously create training programs and pathways when an industry considers coming.”

CCC&TI partnered with the Caldwell County Economic Development Commission, NCWorks and the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce to host the 13th and 14th Caldwell Is Hiring events at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center. The fall event held in September of 2016 featured 49 companies offering more than 1,800 jobs. The May 2017 was filled to capacity with employers seeking to fill more than 2,700 jobs. Both events were well attended.

CCC&TI partnered with the Caldwell County Economic Development Commission and Caldwell County Schools to present the 2nd Hired Ed Program. More than 20 Caldwell County educators gained new insight into local industries and the employment opportunities that are available during the 2.5 day event. The program aims to inform and update teachers and administrators about the many diverse and new careers now available in Caldwell County and the required skills industries are seeking from potential employees. In addition to tours of local industries and manufacturing facilities, the program also featured representatives from Google, Blue Ridge Energy, CCC&TI, and Krystal Engineering to discuss the role of technology in today’s employment world and the opportunities that are available now and into the future.

Caldwell County was named a certified “Work Ready Community” by ACT. The certification is based on individuals at the county level across the workforce earning an ACT WorkKeys National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) and employers recognizing the ACT WorkKeys NCRC. The NCRC is a portable, industry-recognized credential that identifies an individual's WorkKeys Skills in workplace documents, applied math and graphic literacy - skills required for 77 percent of jobs based on ACT JobPro database.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute's Automotive Systems Technology Program has partnered with Subaru of America to expand its curriculum. The partnership allows CCC&TI's already nationally accredited automotive systems curriculum to also include Subaru's web-based, manufacturer-specific vehicle systems training. The additional training will better prepare CCC&TI students for possible employment with a Subaru retailer or with any automotive service center that performs work on Subaru vehicles. Locally, CCC&TI is partnering with Jim Armstrong Subaru in Hickory and Modern Subaru in Boone to offer the training. According to Subaru, the program, which is offered at no cost to students, can greatly improve a graduate's chances of landing a job.

CCC&TI’s Small Business Center assisted with the start of 15 new small businesses in Caldwell and Watauga Counties and helped create 40 new jobs. In addition, more than 230 people attended 30 entrepreneurship classes offered through the SBC.

Customized, Employer Training was delivered to 621 trainees, in 76 classes, to 17 different companies in our service area. CCC&TI also developed and initiated four active Customized Training projects totaling $155,190 of training for 396 trainees. Companies served include: Sealed Air, Stallergenes Greer, Marlin Company, and Timber Wolf Forest Products.

EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION

The Electrical Lineman program had its first female graduate in August 2017. Jenny Little of Conover became the first female to successfully complete CCC&TI’s rigorous electrical lineman training program.

CCC&TI’s Electrical Lineman Program was invited by Duke Energy to attend the company’s “Live Line” Presentation at the Hickory Fair Grounds. In addition, CCC&TI was the only Community College invited to attend the 75th Annual 4H Energy Congress sponsored by Duke Energy and Dominion Electric on the Campus of UNC-Charlotte.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute launched a new five-year quality enhancement plan program designed to improve the quality of a CCC&TI education. The topic for the plan is comprehensive advising that puts greater emphasis on engagement and communication between the student and his/her academic advisors. The plan, dubbed MAP for “My Academic Plan,” will also provide opportunities for orientation, advising activities and engagement throughout the college experience. To help spread the word about the QEP, the college hosted several MAP events and distributed information across a number of communication channels for students, employees and the community.

TRIO/Student Support Services at CCC&TI served more than 200 students providing support, assistance, advisement, tutoring and more. TRIO/SSS provided work opportunities to nine students through the TRIO Work Scholars and Alice B. Lentz Scholarship Programs. In addition, more than $30,000 was distributed to 31 students through TRIO Direct Scholarships.

CCC&TI’s Nuclear Medicine Program hosted the 2nd Nuclear Medicine Registry Review Session. Approximately 50 attendees to the session represented seven Nuclear Medicine programs from three states.

Twelve Caldwell County high school students spent a week on Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s campus touring the facilities and learning about education options during the Exploring Medical Careers camp. The students learned about various medical careers and study options at CCC&TI, including: Nurse Aide, Phlebotomy, Pharmacy Tech, Massage Therapy, EMT, Paramedic, Physical Therapist Assistant, Speech Language Pathology Assistant, Medical Assisting, Cardiovascular Sonography, Medical Sonography, Radiography, Nuclear Medicine Technology, Ophthalmic Medical Assistant and Nursing. They were honored at the conclusion of the week at a completion certificate presen-
Watauga High School students participated in a similar program on the Watauga Campus. Students enrolled in The Camp Med program, sponsored by Northwest Area Health Education Center and Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center, visited the Watauga Campus in Boone for a tour of campus and to learn more about various health care careers and study options at CCC&TI. Students participated in hands-on activities and information sessions on Nursing, Emergency Medical Technician, Medical Assisting, Nurse Aide and Massage Therapy, all of which are offered at the Watauga Campus. The students also learned about additional programs offered on the Caldwell Campus in Hudson.

Cameron Wright Jr., of Rockingham, N.C., became the first deaf student to complete CCC&TI’s Truck Driver Training Program. Wright, who has been deaf since birth, completed the 9-week program, which was administered in partnership with Richmond Community College. By his side through the entire experience was interpreter Carolyn Everett of Morganton and Tuesday Sigmon, coordinator of Disability Services at CCC&TI.

CCC&TI hosted its 2nd Annual Research Expo in May 2017 showcasing research projects by students from curriculum and Adult High School and GED programs. Projects were submitted in three categories: Posters of Original Research, Informational Posters and Models. Cash prizes were awarded for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners in each category.

Students enrolled in the following CCC&TI programs achieved a 100 percent passing rate on certification and/or licensure exams in their area of study:
- Basic Law Enforcement Training
- Cosmetology
- Nursing
- Medical Assisting
- Paralegal
- Radiography
- Speech Language Pathology Assistant
In a Spring ceremony, 49 Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute students were inducted into the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society for the Two Year College. CCC&TI’s chapter of Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) called the Alpha Lambda Pi Chapter, works to promote the intellectual atmosphere of CCC&TI. Students can become eligible to join this exclusive honor society if they achieve and maintain at least a 3.5 grade-point-average in their college level courses.

CCC&TI’s Extreme Super Summer program offered 5 different camps in 2017 in fitness, robotics, art, culinary arts and more. “Kids in the Kitchen” camps were once again offered on both the Caldwell and the Watauga Campuses. More than 100 children participated in the camps.

A group of CCC&TI students, accompanied by CCC&TI faculty members Landon Pennington and Jasyn Klamborowski, hiked on Spain’s famous Camino trail as part of a summer study trip. The trip focused on providing the students an international experience, as well as improving their Spanish skills and learning about Spanish culture.
Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute announced the reaffirmation of its accreditation status in Fall 2016. The process, required by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges, is completed every 10 years to ensure quality standards and guidelines in higher education are being met.

SACS-COC is the 11-state regional accrediting agency of the National Commission on Colleges. CCC&TI employees enjoyed a fun afternoon celebrating the successful completion of the SACS-COC reaffirmation of accreditation process in September, following the on-site committee visit, the culmination of many months of hard work by the entire CCC&TI family.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Emergency Medical Services-Paramedic program has earned accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP). CAAHEP is the largest programmatic accreditor in the health science field. In collaboration with its Committees on Accreditation, CAAHEP reviews and accredits more than 2,000 educational programs in 28 health science occupations. CAAHEP is recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). CAAHEP is also a member of the Association of Specialized and Professional Accreditors (ASPA). CCC&TI is now one of 16 accredited EMT-Paramedic programs in the state. The program is a 1,160-hour course designed to train individuals to provide advanced emergency medical care in the pre-hospital setting. Upon completion of the program, students are eligible to sit for the North Carolina OEMS Paramedic exam and/or the National Registry Paramedic exam. Successful completion of the exam results in receiving a certification in EMT Paramedic from either NC OEMS or the National Registry. Certification with the National Registry qualifies Paramedics to work in any state.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Radiography Program has been awarded an eight-year accreditation rating from the Joint Review Committee on Education in Radiologic Technology (JRCERT), the highest award given by the agency. Seeking national accreditation is a voluntary process that administrators at CCC&TI have chosen to complete in order to enhance quality and safety of the program and promote excellence in patient care among graduates. Over the course of a three year process, JRCERT requires that programs meet nine standards and 66 objectives ranging from student outcomes, faculty qualifications, resources and services to students, to radiation safety and fiscal responsibility of the program.
North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper, while in the High Country visited the Watauga Campus of Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute. After speaking with local community college and business leaders about the importance of workforce training, Cooper toured several classrooms and labs on campus. In addition to seeing the Nursing and Medical Assisting program labs, Cooper visited the Culinary Arts kitchen where a group of children were completing the final week of a "Kids in the Kitchen" cooking camp. Cooper said it's his goal to visit community colleges across the state because they are the focal point of preparing people for better paying jobs. Cooper, who was joined by First Lady Kristin Cooper, concluded by answering questions from the media and taking photos.

NC Community Colleges Board Member Bill McBrayer was on campus in November 2016 for the CCC&TI Board of Trustees meeting and TRIO Deli. A native of Forest City, McBrayer was appointed to serve on the State Board of Community Colleges in 2015 by N.C. House member Jay Adams of Hickory.

NC Senator Deanna Ballard visited CCC&TI's Caldwell Campus in September 2016. Ballard is a State Senator for District 45.

CCC&TI once again hosted a group of students from Aarhus Business School in Denmark. The students spent a week in Western North Carolina and on the campuses of CCC&TI. Students attended classes and explored the community to expand their knowledge of English and experience American culture, as well as the daily life of the American college student. The visiting students enjoyed socials with CCC&TI students, pizza, doughnuts, local BBQ, visits to local attractions like the Blue Ridge Parkway and more.

CCC&TI hosted Appalachian State University Chancellor Dr. Sheri Everts in early November 2016 for a tour of the Watauga Campus. In addition to meeting with CCC&TI President Dr. Mark Poarch and Steve Melton, Executive Director of the Watauga Campus, Everts toured various buildings on campus and enjoyed our beautiful views of the surrounding Blue Ridge Mountains.
CC&TI launched a new smartphone app. The app offers quick access to popular content from the college's website including the faculty/staff directory, maps for the Caldwell and Watauga campuses, calendars and upcoming events, available classes, safety alerts and recent news. With user permission, the app can also send “push notifications” that will alert users to time-sensitive messages such as tuition and registration deadlines and weather-related closings. The app is free and works with various mobile platforms. The app is available for free download in the Apple App Store and Google play as “CCCTI.”

In Spring 2017, Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute, in conjunction with Economic Modeling Specialists, Inc., launched Career Coach, a free online tool that allows prospective students and community members to explore potential careers and training programs at CCC&TI. The easy-to-use online tool gives users access to up-to-date labor market information for our region including salaries, employment growth projections and job opportunities. Career Coach also connects users to CCC&TI program offerings that can help them train for the career they are exploring, or get started on earning the degree that can land them a job.

CCC&TI is continuing the process of digitizing and organizing its archives. More than 88,000 pages have been digitized since the project began in 2015. In addition, space has been dedicated in the Caldwell Campus Learning Resource Center to house historical artifacts and documents collected throughout the institution’s history.

A new interactive electronic kiosk was installed in F Building on the Caldwell Campus. It provides maps of campus, a faculty/staff directory and useful information for students and visitors – at the touch of a button.
Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Academic Support Center and Writing Center on the Caldwell Campus have a new home inside the Broyhill Learning Resource Center, which is also home to the college’s library. The newly transformed space will offer a variety of resources for students, all centrally located in E Building. Additional private study rooms for student use have also been added, as well as a new multipurpose classroom. These changes allow students to take advantage of a range of support services all in one convenient, centrally located facility. The project was funded by a $100,000 grant from the Charles A. Cannon Charitable Trust and supporters.

Student Services office space was remodeled following the Writing Center/Academic Support Center relocation. F-154 on the Caldwell Campus, formerly the Writing Center, has been transformed into a state-of-the-art testing center with a private testing room to meet the need for a quiet testing space that can serve more students. Other renovations of Student Services in the Forlines Building included the addition of a conference room and expanded financial aid offices.

CCC&TI’s Speech Language Pathology Assistant Program acquired a larger, refurbished lab space to utilize when all students are on the CCC&TI campus.

The Early Childhood Classroom, a collaboration of the Family Literacy Program and The Enola Group, at CCC&TI’s Family Resource Center became a licensed, Five Star classroom.

CCC&TI’s greenhouse was recently updated in a special project that included electrical repairs, refurbishing the structure’s steel frame, new plumbing, rust removal and replacing the specialized fiber-glass panels around the structure. Facility Services Director Jeff Herman and a number of CCC&TI and Caldwell Career Center Middle College instructors collaborated on the project plan, and the majority of the work was completed by students. Middle College junior Thomas Melton was the lead engineer for the project. The student work team was comprised of Ryan Balda, Avery Clark, Randall Fleming, Zack Helton, George Hickin, Robbie Link, Manuel Oliva and Seth Pritchard.

CCC&TI implemented a Tobacco Free/Smoke Free policy for all facilities. The policy was approved by the Board of Trustees in November 2016 and implemented in May 2017. Comments from across the campus and community were very positive as a result of the change.

CCC&TI also worked to improve the property along Roy Coffey Drive, near Redwood Park and the entrance to Hudson Elementary/Middle School by removing trees and brush from the site.

The large lecture hall/classroom in B building was also completely refurbished with new carpet and paint.
Culinary Arts Program Director Chef Keith Andreasen was invited to serve as a judge for the NC Family, Career and Community Leaders of America State Culinary Arts Competition held annually at Johnson & Wales University in Charlotte. The NC FCCLA is a national Career and Technical Student Organization that provides personal growth, leadership development and career exploration for students in Family and Consumer Science education in grades K-12.

Chef Andreasen also participated in a 10-day immersion study in Costa Rica to learn about local cuisine, sustainability practices, culture and language. Andreasen travelled with 11 other Culinary Arts and Family and Consumer Sciences (FACS) educators from high schools and colleges across the region. Travelers visited various communities and points of interest in Costa Rica’s Central Valley, learning about local food, local customs and traditions, culinary language and sustainability practices.

Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s Associate of Fine Arts-Music Program Director Justin Butler was awarded a Regional Artist Project Grant from the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources. Butler was one of just eight regional artists to be awarded the grant, which helped him improve and upgrade his studio equipment that he uses to record his original compositions and songs. The studio and equipment has also been of benefit to CCC&TI AFA-Music Program students, as well, providing a place for students to record auditions and get more familiar with studio engineering.

Butler also was named the new Concerts Director for the Chapel of Rest in Happy Valley for 2017. The Chapel of Rest is a fully restored Episcopal church, originally built in 1887 in the heart of Happy Valley in Caldwell County. The Chapel of Rest Preservation society was created in 1984 to preserve the historical integrity of the Chapel and to maintain the building and grounds. A concert series was also inaugurated that year and has been ongoing since, offering a spring and fall concert in the acoustically perfect sanctuary.
Barbara Harris was appointed to the Commission on Accreditation of Ophthalmic Medical Programs (CoA-OMP). She served as course director for the JCAHPO regional meeting in Greensboro September 2016 and for the JCAHPO regional meeting at Kiawah Island, SC June 2017. Harris was also recently tasked with writing the foreword for the 10th edition of The Ophthalmic Assistant, the best-selling and most widely used textbook for OMA programs across the nation.

Harris was asked to write the piece by one of the textbook’s co-authors, Dr. Melvin Freeman, with whom she has served on the Joint Commission on Allied Health Personnel in Ophthalmology (JCAHPO) board.

CCC&TI Math Instructor and Faculty Senate President Caleb Marsh won the Boone Area Chamber of Commerce’s 4 Under 40 Award in May 2017 for the Education Category. The award recognizes emerging community leaders. Marsh was one of four education category finalists. The award was presented at a luncheon at the Holmes Convocation Center in Boone.

In Fall 2016, Fire, Rescue, EMS Coordinator Reid Roper, College and Career Readiness Department Chair Kim Hinton and Instructor Jimmie Griffith became the latest CCC&TI employees to complete Leadership Caldwell. Leadership Caldwell is a community leadership program designed to help participants broaden their knowledge of the community while enhancing their leadership skills. Topics include local agriculture, commerce, government, art and education, health care, community service, history, travel and tourism and local service agencies such as Fire and Police.

Visual Arts Director Thomas Thieleman serves on the Caldwell Arts Council Board of Directors. Thieleman was also featured in a News-Topic cover story about art at CCC&TI and in the community.

Leslie Deal, Nuclear Medicine Instructor and Clinical Coordinator, was elected Treasurer for the North Carolina Nuclear Medicine Technologists (NCNMT) Society.
Music Instructor Luke Benton premiered an original composition with the Western Piedmont Symphony at PE Monroe Auditorium at Lenoir-Rhyne University. Under the baton of Maestro John Gordon Ross, the Western Piedmont Symphony performed the world premiere of “In Pursuit: A Concerto for Lever Harp and Orchestra” in March 2017. The piece, written for the lever harp (Celtic harp) and symphony orchestra, was a collaboration by Benton and harpist and composer Maeve Gilchrist.

Student Activities Director Kim Lackey is serving on the North Carolina Community College System Office Student Life Advisory Board. The board works to provide professional development, maintain best practices and advocate for student life funding and programming by demonstrating relevance to the mission of community colleges.

Faith Race, Ophthalmic Medical Assisting Coordinator, is serving as President of the Consortium of Ophthalmic Training Programs, a non-profit organization that promotes the growth of ophthalmic training programs and awareness of ophthalmic medical personnel.

Jimmy Council, Nuclear Medicine Director, was appointed to the Society of Nuclear Medicine and Molecular Imaging – Technologists Section Educators Committee. Council is also serving as a board member of the Joint Review Committee for Educational Programs in Nuclear Medicine (JRCNMT).

Academic Success Coordinator Nancy Risch is serving on the North Carolina Community College System (NCCCS) Career and College Ready Graduates State Leadership Team, a joint partnership between the NCCCS and North Carolina Department of Public Instruction working to formulate an approach to high school faculty training in the areas of English and reading. Risch also serves as the Western Regional Representative for the NC Conference of English Instructors Board. Risch also presented “Incorporating Advising into ACA-122” at the Fall 2016 ACA Conference in Charlotte.

Early Childhood Education Director Mandy White continues to serve on the Enola Group Board of Directors and the North Carolina Division of Child Development and Early Education Caldwell County Collaboration Group. White also serves on the Caldwell County Smart Start Board of Directors.

CCC&TI Distance Learning Director Kristin Harrison participated and presented in a panel discussion at BBWorld, the international conference for users of education software Blackboard, on exemplary course practices. Harrison presented with Carey Smouse and Lisa Clark from Blackboard/MoodleRooms and Kyle Rosenberger from Ohio University. Harrison spoke specifically about CCC&TI's best practices relating to distance learning.

English Instructor Heather Barnett is currently serving as the North Carolina Representative for the Two Year College English Association-Southeast (TYCA-SE) one of seven regional subgroups of TYCA National, a professional organization for English Instructors at two-year colleges.

Adult Education and English Language Acquisition Instructors Melissa Darling, Randy Seldomridge, Mandy Williams and Shari Brown presented a session at the North Carolina Community College Adult Educators Association Conference on “Rolling into STEAM” and “STEM in the Adult Education Classroom” which outlined tips and techniques for effectively using Sphero robotic devices in the classroom.
Foundation of CCC&TI Exceeds 2017 Fund Drive Goal

The Foundation of Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute held its annual Celebration Luncheon on May 17. Peg Broyhill, chair of CCC&TI’s Foundation Board, announced that the group surpassed its goal of $365,000, the highest yet for the Foundation.

The Foundation celebrated the efforts and success of volunteers, campaign leaders, board members and college officials at the luncheon. Those in attendance enjoyed lunch at the J.E. Broyhill Civic Center and remarks from several community leaders.

Deborah Murray, vice chair of the CCC&TI Foundation, offered a toast in honor of the successful campaign. “You folks do this every year and I am amazed and speechless, believe it or not. To find words to say what you do… this is a massive effort and you do it year after year and exceed the goal not just reach it and that is a major accomplishment,” said Murray. “You did it! Congratulations!”

Broyhill recognized and thanked campaign captains, team members, college officials, students and volunteers for their hard work during this year’s drive. In addition to funds raised by community volunteers and leaders, CCC&TI’s faculty and staff contributed more than $33,000 to campaign. The college’s Student Government Association also raised $1,200 with their “Dinner and a Movie” event for the campaign and were recognized for their efforts.

CCC&TI President Dr. Mark Poarch also offered remarks at the event. For Poarch, who was named the college’s fourth president in July 2016, the 2017 campaign was the first during his tenure as President. “Over the last couple of weeks, we have been able to celebrate with nearly 1,000 students who have earned degrees or certificates and completed programs. We’ve enjoyed celebrating our students and their success,” said Poarch. “But we couldn’t do that without you. Those students and this institution are indebted to you for your hard work, dedication and generosity. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for all that you do for the college.”

Broyhill closed out the event by again thanking the volunteers and donors for their efforts during the campaign. “Because of you, more students will receive help financing their education, get childcare assistance, get counseling, receive a Dream award or a Workstudy Scholarship or emergency funds in a time of need,” said Broyhill. “Your hard work will touch students and will make a difference. Your work will improve lives, improve the college and make our community a better place for all of us.”
41 Local Students Receive Dream Awards to Attend CCC&Ti

In a ceremony held in November 2016 at Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute’s J.E. Broyhill Civic Center in Lenoir, the Foundation of CCC&Ti named 41 local seventh-grade students as the year’s Dream Scholars. The Dream Award ensures free tuition to attend CCC&Ti upon graduation from high school. The program, offered through the Foundation, is in its 27th year and has presented 1,143 awards since its inception.

Dream Award recipients are selected from among students in Caldwell and Watauga counties. Those selected must be first-generation college students who have demonstrated academic achievement and civic involvement, and who have the potential to succeed.

CCC&Ti President Dr. Mark Poarch opened the ceremony by welcoming scholars, their families and guests. “I’d like to be one of the first to congratulate you on receiving this great award. Each one of you is being awarded the promise of full tuition to Caldwell Community College and Technical Institute,” said Poarch. “I would encourage you all to keep dreaming and make sure that college remains a priority going forward.” Poarch also recognized members of CCC&Ti’s Board of Trustees who were in attendance for the event.

Peg Broyhill, Chairwoman of the CCC&Ti Foundation, spoke to those gathered at the ceremony and congratulated this year’s scholars. “You’re here because each of you has already stood out in someone’s eyes. You have gone above and beyond in demonstrating good character, leadership and achievement. You are a remarkable group of students,” said Broyhill. “We look forward to seeing you shine, and hearing of your successes.”

Broyhill recognized the donors who have made the program possible. “The community’s longtime support of this program is amazing,” said Broyhill. She then asked Foundation donors and supporters, CCC&Ti faculty and staff and students’ parents and family members to stand. “Students. Look around this room,” she said. “We would like for you to think of us as your extended family. We are going to cheer you on and we’re going to help you reach your dreams.”

Broyhill also recognized CCC&Ti and Caldwell and Watauga county school administrators as well as various local organizations whose contributions helped make the program possible. She gave special thanks for endowments and grants made possible by the Broyhill Family Foundation, the Coffey Foundation, the Granite Falls High School Class of 1963, the Hogan Family Foundation and the Jerry Church Family. Broyhill also thanked her fellow members of the Foundation’s Board of Directors.

Dena Holman, Vice President of Student Services at CCC&Ti, spoke about the history and purpose of the program. “College is now an expectation,” she said. The Dream Program was started at CCC&Ti in 1989 by Dr. Tony Deal. The purpose is to encourage students to identify career options, earn good grades, complete high school and attend college.

Holman then introduced speakers Crystal Isaacs and Jennifer Starnes, two Dream Scholars who have since completed their degrees at CCC&Ti and are now employed in the community. Isaacs received the Dream Award in 1995 and is a graduate of CCC&Ti’s Nuclear Medicine Program and earned an Associate in General Education degree. She is now employed in the Nuclear Medicine Department at Mission Hospital in Asheville. “The Dream Award gave me a sense of hope and a chance to succeed in life," said Isaacs. “My advice for you all is to never give up on your dreams. You must believe in yourself and have faith in yourself and anything is possible.”

Jennifer Starnes received her Dream Award in 2005 while at Granite Falls Middle School. She is a 2012 graduate of CCC&TI and earned both an Associate in Arts and Associate in Applied Science degree. From CCC&TI, Starnes went on to earn her Bachelor of Science in Emergency Medical Care with a concentration in Health Care Management at Western Carolina University. She is now employed with Caldwell County Emergency Medical Services as a paramedic. “My advice to you would be to use this opportunity to follow your dreams. Believe in yourself and don’t give up. You can achieve anything you set your mind to,” said Starnes. “Dream big. Congratulations.”

The three student speakers were Emma Jakab from Hudson Middle, Melanie Parsons from Kings Creek Elementary and Joseph Penley from Hardin Park Elementary. “When I got the award, I was shocked and happy,” said Jakab, who plans to enter the education or technology field. “Receiving the Dream Award was a special moment for me,” said Parsons, who hopes to become a nurse one day. “I appreciate the confidence that the school, my family and the scholarship committee has in me. I look forward to giving back to my community through this scholarship.” Joseph Penley is a seventh-grader at Hardin Park Elementary School in Watauga County and says that the Dream Award is the best award he’s ever received. “With the scholarship, I will do great things in the future. Thank you to my teacher for nominating me and to CCC&TI for providing it,” said Penley.

At the end of the evening, Dream Scholars introduced themselves one-by-one and shared their career goals for the future. A reception was held in their honor following the ceremony.

Letter From the Foundation Board Chair

How exciting to celebrate another successful campaign this year! We are so fortunate to live in an area where people value and rise to meet the need for affordable, quality education. Not only that, but the Foundation has been able to assist more students than ever before, thanks to you. We are especially grateful to all of our friends who helped us achieve our second highest campaign ever, exceeding our goal of $365,000.

It was our pleasure to have Jerry Church steer this year's fund drive. Not only is he a leader in our community but he is well acquainted with CCC&TI. He has served as a CCC&TI trustee for more than 20 years. And because both he and his family graduated from the college, where he and his wife Amy met, his passion for CCC&TI is heartfelt. Jerry was the perfect person to lead our Journey!!

Our special thanks goes to this year's team of community captains who worked tirelessly to lead us in this year's drive: Barbara Freiman, Wayne Keller, Joan McGee, Deborah Murray, Dr. Mark Poarch, Mary Frances Sullivan, Guy Walters, Marty Waters and Barbara Weiller, in addition to the efforts of my own team. Each of us worked with a terrific group of volunteers and together we set out to surpass the goal for the campaign -- and "We Did It"!!! We are equally grateful for the generosity of CCC&TI employees who contributed more than $33,000 to kick off our campaign in early February.

We deeply appreciate the new Mason Thuss Memorial Scholarship endowment established by the Thuss family for automotive or electronics engineering students. In addition, we are grateful for the new annual commitment of HSM Solutions of Hickory for truck driver training students.

Again, thanks to all of you who “Joined Us for the Journey” to ensure the success of the college and its students. Your gift truly makes a difference to the future of our community.

My Deepest Appreciation,

Peg M. Broyhill
Chair
